

Bromley School

Week 7 Term 1, 2018

From the Principal

Kia Ora, Talofa, Welcome

I have tried to include in my conversations, on every possible occasion, that the Prime Minister dropped in to see us last week. Whilst it was a very exciting day and we were very honoured to have her here, there was a lot more to her visit than just the excitement of her being here.

To coincide with the remembrance of the 2011 Earthquake she announced the Government's new initiative to bring Mental Health Workers into schools. We are very pleased to be a part of the trial to experience the impact of a worker being available to our community.

Whilst we don't yet know the details of this and I expect to very shortly, it sounds amazing and will be of great value in supporting our young people and families. It is also timely to remind you that we have support available here if you are experiencing struggles with the challenges of raising your child. Often that comes in the form of our Social Worker, SENCO (Special Education Needs Coordinator) or other people that are on staff or that we can access.

One of the strongest things about Bromley School is that we all work together to unlock the potential of the children so please never feel that you can't ask for help or advice.

You may have noticed that there is a lot of discussion in the news recently about a shortage of teachers across the country. Many schools can't fill positions, especially those that are growing or are in certain parts of New Zealand.

Our teachers have been called to a Teachers Union meeting next Thursday 22 March in the afternoon.

Whilst I cannot close the school I am asking that if you are happy/able to take your child home at 12.30 on that day it would help us greatly.

We will take care of the children who are unable to be collected on that day but to help us with the organisation could you either fill out the form at the end of the newsletter or use the Bromley School App in the permission section to do that.

Thanks again for your continued support at all the events and activities around here. It is so important and appreciated.

Please be reminded that this year all schools are closed for EASTER on Friday 30 March, Monday 2 April and Tuesday 3 April.
